all party wires at that time. Now, the White Oak is a branch of the White Oak Market in Seaside Park, three miles below and Greger owns both of them and at that time Oxley was manager of the Lavalette store. Now, George Oxley wrote a letter to somebody in Lavalette, - I think it was Miss Blodgett, saying that he was ready to come forward and prove my alibi.

Q That is on the subject of telephones, or had he seen you?

A No, evidently he had seen me that evening. Now, Oxley left the White Oak Market the year following.

Q Where is Oxley now?

A He is in Philadelphia somewhere. I cannot give you his address.

Q Has Mrs. Stevens got that?

A I am not sure whether she has or not. I think Miss Blodgett, who received the word from Oxley said that she couldn't quite get his address over the phone. I think he telephoned to her; I am not sure about that though.

But it would not be hard to get Oxley's address, I think, in Philadelphia. I think Mrs. Stevens is seeing to that now.

Q Did you have occasion to see any of these telephones at all?
